

NASHVILLE, TENN.

THURSDAY DECEMBER 24, 1898.

Notice of New Advertisements.

Remember that a sale of valuable improved real estate, comprising the Gay street, between Spry and McLennan, is to be sold on the premises this Thursday morning, to the highest bidder.

Yostman, Shields & Co., have a miscellaneous sale this morning to close lots.

The First National Bank gives notice that it will be closed on the 25th, and that notes falling due that day should be paid today.

The Edgemoor Omnibus Line gives an important notice to its patrons this morning.

Today is positively the last of the great holiday season by Albert & Seaman.

Members of Temple Division, Sons of Temperance, are requested to meet tonight.

The better classes of the City Hotel furniture will be sold to-day and Saturday.

Robert Thompson & Co. have received a lot of extra large oranges for the holidays, which they are selling at low rates. Having tried them you can vouch for their excellence.

Paul, Tavel & Hanner are printing all descriptions of cards suited to the season.

The Masonic Fraternity of the city will meet to attend the funeral of John A. Fisher, on Sunday next at 11 p. m.

A. E. Garner gives an important notice of a bankrupt sale at Springfield, on the 25th of January.

The Alpha leaves for Louisville and Cincinnati tomorrow afternoon.

Our friend Fugate, Cherry street, near Union, is a depository of Kris-Kingle—where toys, fruits, etc., can be had on the best terms.

Go, immediately after breakfast this morning, to W. C. Collier's, Union street, and see the best selection of holiday goods, both for children and grown people.

See bankrupt notices.

The Carrier's Address.

The Carrier Boys of the Union and American will present their annual address to their patrons on Christmas morning, and each little fellow who occupies the high and respectable position of "paper boy" will expect a warm reception. Through all sorts of weather, he has made daily early calls at our dwellings and places of business, and we feel sure you will not forget the faithfulness and regularity in the delivery of the latest news. Before going to bed tonight, therefore, place your dollars and half dollars in a convenient place, so that it will be convenient to reward your carrier boy when he greets you next morning.

Academy of Music.

An entirely new programme is out for tonight, and we can promise an excellent entertainment for those who attend.

Among the late arrivals at this popular place of amusement, we notice the names of Miss Lillian Mowbray, comedienne, and Mr. E. Edwards, violinist and pianist, from New Orleans, and said to be the best performers in the variety business.

Patrons of the Academy will regret to learn that the accomplished vocalist, Miss Julia Levette, leaves this week to spend the holidays in Louisville.

Sabbath School Concert.

The scholars of the Second Presbyterian Sabbath School propose giving an entertainment, consisting of music and dialogue, on Christmas Eve, 24th inst., at the Second Presbyterian Church.

An Italian, named Redger, was arrested yesterday on a charge of stealing a jug of whiskey.

Some countrymen left several jugs of whiskey at the stand which this Italian keeps on the Square during the day, and when they called on him for the things, he gave them the raisins and cigars, but withheld the whiskey, probably for his own use. He told them that some one had stolen the jug with the contents. A search warrant was taken out and the jug was found concealed under some old boxes. He was taken before Justice Cassady and taxed with the costs.

From his appearance, one would suppose he had tested the quality of the contents of the jug a good many times.

The Governor That is to Be in Knoxville.

The Knoxville Free Press and Herald of Tuesday says that Hon. DeWitt C. Senter, the coming Governor of Tennessee, was in that city on Monday. He looked, says that paper, the picture of health, and we wonder that Riddleberger didn't detain him at Nashville during the holidays—he would have made such an attractive sight of good feeling down stairs. To what extent the recent medical advice of the political element at Washington may have contributed to his personal patchwork we cannot say. He certainly was not much damaged by Senator Caffery's fusillade.

A Patient Accident.

Mr. C. Schott, surgical instrument maker, on College street, in the use of a circular saw, yesterday morning, received injuries requiring the amputation of a portion of his left hand. Mr. Schott is an accomplished artisan whose services are constantly in request by the profession, and the temporary disability to which the injury subjects him, is greatly to be regretted, as well as his personal account as he by the public.

A Sundry Trick.

A man was caught last evening in the act of carrying away a package of lard from the pork factory, in South Nashville. He was exposed on the spot, and made to feel rather sheepish when he was required to return the lard. The proprietor of the establishment did not choose to prosecute, but took occasion to deliver a wholesome lecture to the individual upon the subject of larceny.

Deaths of a Former Well Known Citizen.

Mrs. K. M. C. Rhodes died at her residence, near Bellevue, on the Nashville and Northwestern railroad, on Tuesday night last. He was for many years a resident of this city, and employed in the shop of Vannoy & Turberville.

Released.

Ed. Morton, colored, who was committed to jail sometime since, on a charge of larceny in stealing lard from the storeroom of Spry & Co., on Broad street, was released yesterday, by order of the Criminal Court.

Discharged.

Ann Johnson, colored, who was arrested a day or two since on a charge of refusing to appear as a witness in a case of larceny, was discharged yesterday.

Sawney and Battery.

Samuel Smith, colored, was committed to jail yesterday by Justice Matthews charged with assault and battery upon another colored woman.

Assault.

Van Payne was fined $10 and costs in the Criminal Court yesterday, for assaulting with a knife.

Marked.

At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. F. M. Davis, of Giles county, and W. T. Davis, of this city.

No cards.

On the evening of the 23d inst., by the Rev. Mr. Finney, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. F. M. Davis, of Giles county, and W. T. Davis, of this city.

FASHIONABLE HATTERS.

Hats, Caps, Ties and Umbrellas.

TALL MERCHANTS.

Men and Brothers Victimised by a Radical Friend.

Several colored men employed by the corporation, have instituted proceedings against a political friend of theirs engaged in the grocery business, and who, they have reason to think, has no "money fair" with them in the way of trade. The investigation of the case was commenced yesterday, before a District clerk magistrate, and being yet in an unfinished condition, we refrain from mentioning the names of the parties. It seems from the facts thus far elicited, that the corporation hands would be supplied by the proper officer in the employment of the corporation, and desired to trade with the merchant, and to give him a given amount, and authorizing him to give them the credit called for. Upon the strength of these certificates the merchant would let the holders have goods, and present his bills to the City Treasurer for settlement. Whether in most or any of these cases the merchant failed to let the holders of orders for extra large oranges for the holidays, which they are selling at low rates. Having tried them you can vouch for their excellence.

BURLINGTON.

Thieves Enter and Rob the House of Joe Williams.

About one o'clock Tuesday night, the residence of Joe Williams, the well known resident on Cherry street near Broad, was entered by a thief, who succeeded in getting hold of Joe's pocket-book, containing $52.70 in legal tenders. The book and contents, as a matter of course, were carried off, and there is hardly a remote probability that the property will be brought back again, unless a big walking stick left by the thief in the house, or some other circumstance, leads to his identification. The burglar got into the room occupied by Williams and his wife by raising a window, out of which he jumped as soon as he discovered that he had wakened the sleepers. The legal tenders, comprising all the money in the possession of the loser, was all the burglar got for his desperate party, having to retreat from the place in such precipitate haste as to leave his walking cane behind him. Joe says that if the thief follows will return the money, he will retain the pocket-book and take away the cane as testimonial to the rarest sort of personal honesty. He has himself already had the money stolen from him, and would think much better of the burglar and human nature generally, should the amount be returned to him in the manner indicated. It might also save the painful necessity of prosecuting somebody for burglary. He waits to see.

HORRIBLE AFFAIR.

A Negro Murdered in Bed—His Head Chopped to Pieces with an Ax.

One of the most horrible tragedies ever committed in this vicinity, says the Memphis Avalanche of Tuesday, was revealed yesterday morning by the discovery of the victim.

For several months past, among other occupants of an old tenement house in one of the alleys running into Central Point, were Louis Givens and his wife and John Shaw—all colored. Shaw was unmarried, and his occupation was that of a porter. He was a quite comely yellow woman, and vain enough to court admiration, had aroused the jealousy of the husband. Several times he had accused her of infidelity, but angry words received angry words in reply, and nothing came of them. Altercations had taken place between the two men, but attended with no serious result.

Early yesterday morning a resident of the vicinity, while passing through an alley near the Point, was attracted by blood on the ground. It was evident that a bleeding body had been dragged either to or from one of the tenements near by. Further investigation revealed a shocking sight. It was that of the dead body of a negro known as John Shaw, lying among some weeds and rubbish in the alley. His head, neck and shoulders were literally bathed in blood, which still slowly leaked from frightful gashes in the forehead and upper portions of the skull, made with an ax or hatchet.

The police were notified, and by following the line marked by the blood, it was discovered that the crime had been committed in the tenement occupied in part by the murdered man. Upon entering the place the officers to Shaw's head, the clothing on which was almost saturated with blood. There was no doubt that during the night, and when asleep, Shaw had been murdered, and that the body was dragged into the alley by the murderer. It was found forty feet from the scene of the tragedy.

The women—Givens' wife and a young woman named Hayes—in the house, both denied all positive knowledge of the author of the tragedy, but the latter stated as her belief that the murder had been committed by Givens. The ax with which the murder had been accomplished was found in the alley. It belonged to Givens and was covered with blood. Givens was soon arrested. He protested his innocence, but was taken before Judge Griffiths and sent to jail to await examination Thursday next. Corner Samsom held an inquest on Shaw's remains, resulting in a verdict that the death was the result of wounds inflicted by a person.

Remember the Poor.

In preparing your list for Christmas, and in the distribution of the good things purchased for the occasion, have an eye to the poor in your mind. That little ragged boy, who lives on the corner, has no father to bestow on him even the scraps of life, and the widowed mother by honest toil, is barely able to save herself and family from starvation. Look through the window long after the midnight hour, and there you will see a picture of poverty and industry combined. In a room but poorly furnished, there she sits, close to a fire place but scantily supplied with fuel, and notwithstanding the severity of the weather outside, she toils away at her needle, feeling that it is necessary to existence, that the work on which she is engaged should be finished by the coming day. Morning comes, and the little boy is awakened from the rough cot, and hurried away to deliver the work and receive the small stipend which an anxious mother is waiting in order to provide provisions for the day.

Receive that little boy kindly.

He is beggarly in appearance, but he has a manly heart. His mother has told him of the misfortunes that have visited the family circle—how a fond father was killed in battle, and how an elder brother met death from an epidemic that prevailed in the valley. He has received the lessons of wisdom from a pious mother. Help him to stem the tempestuous storms of life and battle with the current of prosperity. Heap upon him the good things which are abundant in your household, and he will never fail to remember your kindness. Like you he once lived in affluence, but a few short years have wrought great changes. Help the little fellow along, and send a word of cheer to that mother whom he loves so fondly. Energy is marked upon his brow, and some day he will make his mark in the world. Give him a Christmas greeting that will make his young heart leap with joy. He will then feel that in this cold and selfish world there is a helping hand, and a helping heart to the needy. This is no fancy sketch. Look around you, and inquire if your very close neighbors are not struggling with poverty, and remember, that "he who giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord."

Larceny.

D. S. Cullum was arraigned before Commissioner Davis yesterday morning on a charge of larceny in stealing $4.75. He was discharged.

He Wrung His Hands Distracted with His Care.

—Dyden.

Ave, in the post, that was so often true, when Wats were worn that now we could not bear.

In other times, come call them "good old days."

Men wrung their hands distracted with their care.

But now our hats, so easy, soft and light, from all who wear a word of praise come; their fit, their style, their make, so perfect.

They please all wearers, and they please them well.

OUR CLARKVILLE LETTER.

Taxpayers vs. School Commissioners—The Case Concluded—The Opinion Delivered.

The argument in the case of taxpayers against school commissioners by the Hon. Chancellor J. F. Lank, in chambers, was concluded here to-day. The question at issue is the constitutionality of the section of the school law which provides for the appointment of commissioners in school districts, and authorizing them to assess a tax for school purposes. It was argued for two days by John F. House, J. E. Bailey and W. A. Quarles for the taxpayers, and by W. A. Peiffer, R. W. Humphreys and J. J. Buck, in behalf of the Commissioners, on a motion to dissolve an injunction heretofore granted by Judge Shackelford, enjoining the collection of tax assessed. Judge Lank reserved his decision for a few days, when it will be given in writing. The patient and urbane manner in which the Judge listened to this tedious argument, has made for him many warm friends among the members of the Clarkville bar.

The Tyrone passed down at 8 A. M. Weather very cold, and business dull.
